A Word to the Wise and Otherwise.

The minutes of the Twenty-sixth annual session of the Kentucky Sunday School Union is before me, and the perusal of these leads me to make a few observations. What I write is directed mainly to heads of families, though I am glad to get the attention of the children also. Since it has never been settled who is the head of the family, the wife or the husband, these observations are meant for both, though if I were placed on the stand and forced to tell, sundry and various reasons would lead me to confess that the head of every family is the man who "runs" the family, i. e., the woman; all that the courts have said to the contrary notwithstanding.

But to my point. Montgomery county is put down as having 3,178 white school children, by which is meant children enrolled as attendants of the public schools. Of this number, 1,076 are enrolled attendants of the various Sunday schools of the county. In other words only about one-third of the children whose names are inscribed on the rolls of the public schools, attend Sunday school at all. And since the average attendance is generally about two-thirds the enrollment, only 718 young folks, at the outside figure, are instructed regularly in the Sunday school. This is a little over one-half the enrolled membership of the white churches in Mt. Sterling. Now I think this is distressing; particularly since my real conviction is that the total membership of the Sunday schools of the county, teachers and all, is not in fact over six or seven hundred. Statistics are deceiving, especially when made up as such, since every school desires to make the best possible showing. Hence, I repeat, that the real state of facts is worse and not better than the figures seem to show. Nor are our neighbors better than we. A glance at the tabulated statistics of the minutes, reveals the fact that Bath county is worse off than we, and but few of the blue grass counties better. So I am not crying down our grand old county. Nor, I uttering a pessimistic wall, but I write because I am hopeful of better things.

This condition is distressing for the reason that unless the children are taught the bible in the Sunday schools, they go through life with little or no knowledge of it at all. Mind you I speak of the young folks of this generation and most earnestly ask, is this not true? Much may be learned from the preacher and much at home. But speaking generally, reverence for God's word and taste for reading it, not to speak of actual familiarity with many passages, can be acquired in this busy age only in the Sunday schools. This is the actual condition of things, the cold, hard facts, not as they ought to be, but as they are. While it is theoretically possible to learn at home and from private reading, there are so many other things to attend to that even the most religious find it well nigh impossible to get time to teach the children the Bible. And this step proves that they mean to teach and can do so. It says nothing about ability or inclination or even willingness. Now everybody of good hard sense concedes the Bible to be God's word—the revelation of his will concerning us. Then is it not to indifference that we must attribute this light attendance on the Sunday schools? It is not indifference—that is about dead—but indifference, and that, not chiefly of the children but of the parents. There are times when the most restless boy desires to attend Sunday school, but he does not go because his parents are so indifferent, or careless or lazy that they never give the little fellow the slightest encouragement. Now is not this indifference criminal? A man who can send his boy or girl to the secular schools and does not do it, is put down by his fellows as guilty of gross neglect of duty. By some he is counted unworthy to have children, and, to my thinking, such a "wretch concentrated all in self," can't be censured too highly. What then shall be said of the parents, who conceding that the Christian life is desirable above all else for their children, let above all Sunday mornings or permit their children to run wild on that day? And what shall we say of the members of the churches who are indifferent on this subject?

My observation is that young folks only need encouragement from parents to induce them to attend regularly even the duller Sunday school in the land. And further, that unless the parents are interested, and encourage their children, to secure their attendance is almost hopeless, unless the Sunday school is turned into a monkey show. Thank God that is seldom done. My fellow citizens of Montgomery county think of these things I beseech you. Encourage your children, persuade them, constrain them, to attend Sunday schools. If you will not, don't blame them for not attending of their own will, and if they fall into crime in the years of their youth, don't go around mouthing about the law of the land and the looseness of morals in the community, but blame your own stupendous folly. There are people in this country who actually take more intelligent and discriminating care of their stock than of their children; and women who are too indolent and indifferent to get the little ones ready for Sunday school on Sunday morning; who will be wringing their hands because their neglected children have "gone to the devil and degraded the family" in the years to come. If for no other reason seek to save them from folly and sin in this life. But most of all encourage them to seek their creator in the days of their youth because the end of all life, outside of Christ is death.

EDWARD E. BOMAR.

From Hotel Delone.

Mr. C. W. Reed, proprietor of the Hotel Delone, Omaha, one of the finest new and modern hotels in the west, says of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy: "We have used it in our family for years with the most satisfactory result, especially for our children, for colds and croup. It can be depended upon; besides it is pleasant to take and seems to be free from alcoholism and the oily substances put into many cough mixtures." 25 cent, 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by T. G. Julian.

Working Women and Their Place

To-Dav.

The proportion of women whose daily lot is harder labor of some kind or other is not greater now than it has been in other periods. On the contrary, it is probably smaller. But at no former time has the wage-earning woman been so distinct a social and economic factor. Woman's work was formerly held in very closely by domestic conditions. Her life was a part of the life of some family, and as an unattached industrial unit she was practically non-existent. Newer conditions have obviously changed all this; and every city has its army of young working women seeking an independent livelihood, just as it has its larger army of young men. The army of young working men in great towns, young men wholly unattached and fighting the battle of life upon their individual resources, has not been very long recognized as a distinct social element, and one for which peculiar provisions should be made. But its recognition has been more general, and there has been better provisions made for it than for the other army of young working-women. Yet the position of the young women is much the more difficult. The kinds of work open to women are not half so numerous as those that young men can enter. And women's wages average little more than half as much as their brothers'. The practical difficulties in the way of procuring employment are especially great for young women, and conventional obstacles lie everywhere. The rights, the needs, the wants of working-girls call for agitation and for organized action. And in many ways the movement has begun—Albert Shaw, in February Scribner.

Experiments show that a person speaking in the open air can be heard equally as well at a distance of 100 feet in front, 75 on each side and 30 behind. At a symphony concert, a poor fellow's whisper can be heard on all sides with an annoying plainness that acoustics cannot account for.

A Cannibal Plant.

There has been discovered in Nicaragua a flesh-eating, or rather, man-eating plant, which is called by the natives "the devil's snare." In form it is a kind of vegetable octopus, or devil-fish, and it is able to draw the blood of any living thing which comes within its clutches. It appears that a Mr. Dunstan, a naturalist, has lately returned from Central America, where he spent two years in the study of the plants and animals of those regions. In one of the swamps which surround the great Nicaragua Lake, he discovered the singular growth of which we are writing. "He was engaged in hunting for botanical and entomological specimens, when he heard his dog cry out, as if in agony, from a distance. Running to the spot whence the animal's cries came, Mr. Dunstan found him enveloped in a perfect network of what seemed to be a fine, rope-like tissue of roots and stems. The plant or vine seemed entirely composed of bare, interlacing stems, resembling more than anything else, the branches of the weeping-willow denuded of its foliage, but of a dark, nearly black hue, and covered with a thick, viscid gum that exuded from the pores. "Drawing his knife, Mr. Dunstan attempted to cut the poor beast free; but it was with the greatest difficulty that he managed to sever the fleshy muscular fibres of the plant. When the dog was extracted from the coils of the plant, Mr. Dunstan saw, to his horror and amazement, that the dog's body was blood-stained, while the skin appeared to have been actually sucked or puckered in spots," and the animal staggered as if from exhaustion. "In cutting the vine, the twice curled living, sinuous fingers about Mr. Dunstan's hand, and it required no slight force to free the member from its clinging grasp, which left the flesh red and blistered. The gum exuding from the vine was of a grayish-dark tinge remarkably adhesive, and of a disagreeable odor, powerful and nauseating to inhale." The natives, we are told, showed the greatest horror of the plant, which, as we have noted above, they called the "devil's snare," and they resorted to the natural history of its death dealing powers. Mr. Dunstan, we are told, was able to discover very little about the nature of the plant, owing to the difficulty of handling it, for its grasp can only be shaken off with the loss of skin, and even of flesh. As near as he could ascertain, however, its powers of suction is contained "in a number of infinitesimal mouths or little suckers, which, ordinarily closed, open for the reception of food." "If the substance is animal, the blood is drawn off and the carcass or refuse then dropped. A lump of raw meat being thrown in, in the short space of five minutes the blood will be thoroughly drunk off and the mass thrown aside. Its voracity is almost beyond belief."—Portland Transcript.

The New York World is out in an editorial, serving notice on both Hill and Cleveland that neither can be nominated because of the factional fights they have engendered in the State. It says further: "If, as now seems likely, the National Democratic Convention shall drop all New York candidates, then on a sound tariff reform and honest money platform, we believe that any one of the following named gentlemen can unite the factions, carry New York and be elected President of the United States: Gov. Horace Boies, of Iowa; Gov. Robert F. Patterson, of Pennsylvania; Senator John M. Palmer, of Illinois; Senator John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky; Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller, of Illinois; Senator Arthur P. Gorman, of Maryland; Gov. William E. Russell, of Massachusetts; Gov. Isaac P. Gray, of Indiana; Gov. Leon Abbott, of New Jersey."

A mass meeting of the Democrats was held in New York City on Thursday night to protest against the holding of the State Convention next Monday, the 22d. This call is so evidently in the interest of one candidate, that resolutions strongly condemning the call were adopted. A committee on fifty was appointed to wait on the State Central Committee and lay the matter before them. Among the prominent men present were ex-Mayor Wm. R. Grace, Wm. E. Curtis, Abraham S. Hewitt, Henry R. Birkman, ex-United States District Attorney Stephen A. Walker, and ex-Secretary of the Treasury Charles S. Fairchild.

The Business Outlook.

R. G. Dun & Company's Weekly Review of Trade says: The business situation is not quite so satisfactory or encouraging as it has been. While there has been a gradual increase in the distribution of many lines of merchandise there is shrinkage in demand and much depression in iron. Further decline in cotton blights the hopes of a revival in Southern trade and speculation stimulated by cheap money and by a great success of coal speculation now extends to wheat and threatens to restrict export. Notwithstanding the fact that exports of wheat have been diminishing and for four days of the past week been only 300,000 bushels from the Atlantic ports while Western receipts continue large. Speculations at Chicago lifted the price 64 cents during the week and sales here have been 57,000,000 bushels. An advance from any cause which cuts off exports of breadstuffs at a time when Europe has heavy demands for stocks marked here would not be wholesome.

The Court of Appeals has twice, within a few days, given its endorsement to the validity of the new constitution; a thing the people had done in a most emphatic manner some time since.

H. M. McCarty, the venerable editor of the Jessamine Journal and one of the most brilliant writers of the State, who died at his late residence at Nicholasville, on the 15th inst., was buried at Bardonia last Wednesday.

Chief Justice Maxwell, of the Supreme Court, has handed down an opinion holding that Gov. Thayer had no right to hold the office of Governor nor had he the right to usurp authority and that Lieutenant Governor Majors should have held the office pending the test of Boyd's citizenship.

The Senate passed the Goebel Lottery Bill on Friday morning. The bill passed by a vote of 20 to 0; the opponents of the bill not voting. This is a step in the right direction and when the House shall pass it, if the law is enforced, it will help to rid us of a very great evil.

It is the opinion of those in position to know that the proposed amendment to the United States Constitution, providing for the direct election by the people of their United States Senators, is passing prosperously through its committee stages and will be reported favorably to the House.

The First Congressional district has started out with a multiplicity of candidates for Congress, Judge W. N. Robertson, Mayfield; Judge James Campbell, Paduch; Capt. Stone, present incumbent; J. K. Hendrick, Smithland; and two gentlemen of the Alliance party, who have not yet permitted the use of their names, but who will doubtless become candidates.

We are glad to notice that our representative had the manliness and liberal mindedness to vote for the appropriation to build a monument to the memory of Hart, the sculptor. Mr. Thomas is not in the legislature to make a "record," but to represent his constituents, and do that which he thinks will reflect honor on his State. A former legislature appropriated a large sum of money to bring Joel T. Hart's body home and now some members of this one refuse to vote $1,000 to mark the spot where his body is laid.

Governor Brown has wisely offered a reward of $200, for the capture of Berry Turner. This, in addition to the $100 offered by the Patrons, makes a reward of $300 offered. Turner and his gang were last heard from at "South America," not far from Pineville. Another fight is expected between the Turner and Patron factions.

Frank Martin, one of the famous Patron faction, is locked up at Middleboro for shooting W. T. Brooks, one of the Turner faction, on the 15th. Brooks was passing a cabin on Stony Fork, when Martin stepped out and said he should not pass. He was armed with a rifle and shot Brooks in the groin, from which Brooks will probably die. Martin escaped, but was pursued by Sheriff Colson and deputy Turner, who arrested him at "South America," the scene of the Turner-Parton feud.

This space is for I. N. Phipps, successor to W. S. Caldwell, dealer in Clothing and Hats. His stock is complete with desirable goods, which, at this time, are marked down very low. The Clothing Department is full of choice bargains. Suits in all the latest styles and woven by the best manufacturers of this country. Youths' and Children's Suits Very Low. Customers will find everything as represented, both in price and quality of goods. Hats are sold at prices less than ever before, on account of the large stock to be reduced. ## The Critic Egged.

The Lexington Transcript gives the following account of the eggling of a Lexington man that is said to have occurred in our city Friday night. The facts, as given by the correspondent, seem to be very nearly correct, so we copy the article entire.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Feb. 20.—The eggling of the season occurred in front of the National Hotel in this city at a late hour last night. A young society man and would-be critic on the Leader, came to Mt. Sterling about a month ago to attend a ball and banquet, and in his report of the affair in the next day's Leader, he was very severe and made all sorts of unkind remarks about the supper.

Among other things, he said: "The supper was rotten, but I suppose it was owing to the fact that they had no eggs." Last night the same young critic came up and gave a box party at the Opera House and of course, put on a lot of style, as city boys generally do at a show in a small town. The Wilbur Opera Company seemed to have special attractions for him as he had followed the girls to this city after witnessing their performances every night for a week in Lexington.

Criticism aside and back to the facts: He was here and after the show he started to the National Hotel, but the night was dark and the boys were out with their pockets filled with eggs and when the young critic was near the hotel they let fly their springtime missiles and covered his brown suit, pants and all, with shells, white and yellow until he cried "enough." But the boys yelled: "d— be he who cries enough."

The screams of the young man attracted the attention of the police who rushed to the scene in time to see a loud pair of pants making their escape through the front door into the hotel and hear a muffled laugh in the darkness near the new Court House.

The young man was shown to his room where he was groomed up in possible shape and he retired a wiser, if not a more discreet man. No arrests were made up to six o'clock this afternoon and from present indications there will be no extra exertions made by the police to bring the guilty parties to justice.

Eggs are still firm and range from 18 to 20c; market brisk. Weather cloudy and cool. Track fast.

Mr. Clarence Bradley, dramatic critic of the Leader, gave a box party at the Opera House in Mt. Sterling, Friday night.—Lex. Transcript.

On Wednesday night George Gibson and Cole Smoot had a difficulty in Pangburn's saloon on Court street. During the quarrel Gibson struck Smoot with a beer glass when Smoot cut Gibson quite severely in the right breast. The wound, whilst serious, is probably not a fatal one. Smoot had an examining trial yesterday and was released.

Some parties without the fear of the law before their eyes broke into Mr. James Turley's cold storage warehouse on Friday night and stole a quantity of meat, wine, etc.

A Mob Foiled.

The following special from Owingsville to the Courier-Journal, gives an account of an attempted jail delivery Saturday night: "About 12 o'clock last night a mob of fifty or sixty masked men called at the jail in this place, claiming to have a prisoner to lock up. Jailor D. S. Nixon was suspicious, however, and refused to let them in. The mob then revealed their true intentions by breaking down the front door of the jail and rushing in, saying they wanted and intended to have a man confined there, at the same time firing toward the head of the stairs, where the jailer and his son Will were stationed.

The jailer returned the fire as fast as he could, and the mob proceeded to suppress as rapidly as they could get out. It is not known whether any of them were struck or not. People differ in their belief as to who the mob wanted. Some think they wanted to release George Green, sentenced to the penitentiary for life for the murder of John B. Davidson, while others think they wanted to lynch the negro, Oscar Jones, who murdered Town Marshal Taylor Vice, of Sharpsburg, Christmas eve."

Notice.

I am forced to have money in order to meet my payments. Those owing me must come forward and settle their indebtedness. I dislike to be thus abrupt but necessity forces me to make collections. I therefore ask those indebted to me to come forward and settle at once, and avoid trouble.

THE ADVOCATE.

THE STATES.

Maine takes its name from the Province of Maine in France, and was so called as a compliment to the Queen of Charles I., Henrietta, who was its owner.

New Hampshire takes its name from Hampshire, England. New Hampshire was originally called Laconia.

Vermont is French (Vert Mont), signifying green mountain.

Massachusetts is an Indian word, signifying "Country About the Great Hills."

Rhode Island gets its name because of its fancied resemblance to the Island of Rhodes in the Mediterranean.

The real name of Connecticut is Quann-on-ta-cut. It is a Mohegan word and means "Long River."

New York was so named as a compliment to the Duke of York, who brother, Charles II., granted him the territory. New Jersey was named for Sir George Carter, who was at the time Governor of the Island of Jersey in the British Channel.

Pennsylvania, as is generally known, takes its name from William Penn, the "sylvania" part of it means woods. Literally it is "Penn's Woods."

Delaware derives its name from Thomas West, Lord de la Ware.

Maryland was named in honor of Henrietta Maria, Queen of Charles I. Virginia got its name from Queen Elizabeth, "the Virgin Queen."

The Carolinas are named for Charles (Carolina) II.

Florida gets its name from Kanunas de Flores, or "Feast of the Flowers."

Alabama comes from a Greek word, and signifies "Land of Rest."

Louisiana was named in honor of Louis XVI. Mississippi is a Natchez word, and means "Father of Waters."

Three or four Indian interpretations have been given the word Arkansas, the best being that it signifies "Smoky Waters," the French prefix "Ark" meaning low.

Tennessee, according to some writers, is from Tennessee, an Indian Chief; others have it means "River of the Big Bend."

Kentucky does not mean "Dark and Bloody Ground," but is derived from the Indian word "Kain-tuk-ae," signifying "Land at the Head of the River."

Ohio has several meanings fitted to it. Some say that it is a Suwanee word, meaning "The Beautiful River," others refer to the Wyandotte word Oheea, which signified "Something Great."

Indiana means land of Indians.

Illinois is supposed to be derived from an Indian word which is intended to refer to a superior class of men.

Wisconsin is an Indian word, meaning "Wild, Rushing Waters."

Missouri means "Muddy Water."

Michigan is from an Indian word, meaning "Great Lake."

The name of Kansas is based on the same as that of Arkansas.

Iowa is the name from an Indian tribe, the Kiowas were so called by the Illinois Indians because they were "across the river."

The name of California is a matter of much dispute. Some writers say that it first appeared in a Spanish romance of 1520, the heroine being an Amazonian named "California."

Colorado is a Spanish word applied to that portion of the Rocky Mountains on account of its many colored peaks.

Nebraska means shallow waters.

Nevada is a Spanish word signifying "Snow-Covered Mountains."

Georgia had its name bestowed when it was a colony in honor of George II.

The Spanish missionaries of 1524 called the country now known as Texas, "Mictescapan," and the people Mictescas.

From this last word the name of Texas is supposed to have been derived.

Oregon is a Spanish word signifying "Valley of Wild Thyme."

Dakota means "Leagued" or "Allied Tribes."

Wyoming is the Indian word for "Big Plains."

Washington gets its name from our first President.

Montana means mountainous.

Idaho is a name that has never been satisfactorily accounted for.

Critics are beginning to find fault with the designs on the new halves and quarters. There's no necessity for any feeling in the matter; it's very easy to change them.—Philadelphia Times.

The Future of Natural Gas.

As to the actual amount of gas produced it is difficult to obtain exact figures; too many people are interested in concealing or misstating the facts. But one tendency cannot be overlooked, the gradual withdrawal of gas for other uses than domestic heating and cooking. The demand from this source alone is already equal to the supply, especially if conservative notions prevail in regard to its permanence. Such use permits of better prices than to maintain factories, built to sell town lots, and that those who have monopolized the visible sources of supply should seek to restrict its uses to the more profitable channels is not to be wondered at. Nor is it strange if, in order to get the business into their hands, they are willing to sell at a price which would not cover the cost of production. This is the case with the coal and oil fields of the West. The coal and oil fields of the West are being worked out, and the price of coal and oil is rising. This is the case with the coal and oil fields of the West.

It is still the age of steam and coal, but this is to be the type of all future time. Electricity is already with us, and there are indications too plain to be disregarded that the coal fire is to remain under special conditions only, just as the windmill and the water wheel retain a place in the world's economy. Who, then, can say that the age of gas is not yet to come?

When we consider that of all the products of the mine, coal has been reckoned the most important; when we remember that the Lehigh and Lackawanna coal fields alone have created fortunes more vast than the gold mines of California; when we realize that it has revolutionized the means of locomotion, that it has opened new highways of trade and travel, that it has supplanted the water wheel on land and the sailing ship on the seas, that it is the impelling force of commerce, and the foundation of a manufacturing system that has developed into proportions that were undreamed of a generation ago, what shall we say of the future, with the possible, yet probable displacement of coal by something vastly better?—Engineering Magazine.

Care of the Sick.

Let in the sunshine.
Banish all confusion.
Cleanliness is the first rule.
Make mustard plasters thin.
Ask the doctor as to visitors.
Don't ask questions of sick people.
Wear a clean dress and a bright smile.

Flowers are permissible, but never in profusion.
Simple surprises are a pleasure to a convalescent.

Rheumatic patients should lie between sheets.

Eat a cracker or two before going into the room of convalescent.

A sandwich of mixed raw beef-steak often tempts an invalid.

A mustard plaster mixed with the white of an egg will not blister.

Watch the ventilation and gauge the temperature by a thermometer.

The sick chamber should be plainly furnished and no heavy hangings.

All wooleens or similar goods should be removed from the room where convalescent is under treatment.—Philadelphia Record.

At American Flag in Southern California, lives an old woman of sixty-eight, who in her early youth had a high valuation placed upon her by her church. Her father's brother, Jesus Castro, fell in love with her, and she reciprocated his affections. None of the priests would perform the ceremony. Castro offered one priest to give as much as $5,000 to the church if the marriage knot could be tied. This however, was considered too little. Finally it was agreed that if Castro would give the girl's weight in gold they should be made man and wife. He did so and never regretted the price paid for his wife.—Portland Transcript.

It seems as if 1892 were going to be a particularly fatal year for explorers. Within a day or two of Sir James Grant's death, in Scotland, Dr. Junker, another celebrated African traveler, died in St. Petersburg, and on Monday Capt. John Parry North Pole expedition in 1830, died in England. In Capt. Greene's case it appears that Arctic explorations and exposure were good for the health, as he survived the terrible journey seventy-two years. Nor may it be amiss to note that Admiral Sir Provo Wallis, the senior officer of the British navy, who died last week, was a lieutenant on board the Shannon, in her celebrated encounter with the Chesapeake off the Massachusetts coast, nearly seventy-nine years ago, and was placed in command of the Chesapeake after her capture.—Courier-Journal.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria. Great Contest.

One of the most exciting contests in the history of Central University will be that to be held on Monday evening next to decide upon a representative to the Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Contest to be held in the latter part of April at Georgetown. In order to make this a most interesting affair, Dr. Blanton has decided to award a gold medal to the second best speaker—the best speaker to represent the College in the coming contest.

There will be seven speakers, all trained orators, several of whom have met before in the intellectual arena. In the list of orators of the occasion whose names are given below, are represented every style of speaking, and surely every one in the audience will have abundant opportunity to be interested in the exhibition. At the present writing it is pretty well conceded that no one has a "chance" on the first honor, and if all the fellows will keep up their training the judges will have a hard time to arrive at a decision. At all events it will be a great day in "Capua."

The speakers and their subjects are here given in the order of their delivery:

"Phantoms of Hope," E. P. Tribble, '92, Ep., Richmond, Ky.
"Parnell," Cabell H. Chenault, '93, Ep., Richmond, Ky.
"Our Government," C. O. Groves, '94, Ep., Mt. Sterling, Ky.
"Age of Revolution," A. L. Irvine, '93, Phil., Lebanon, Ky.
"What of the Republic," B. T. Cox, '92, Ep., Mayville, Ky.
"Enlightened Partnership," Joseph Cabell Jones, '92, Phil., Standford, Ky.
"The Birth of Independence," William G. Lackay, '92, Phil., Standford, Ky.

Victory for one, a medal for another, and four coffins!—Richmond Register.

The dreadful tragedy yesterday at Gallatin, Tenn., is another warning to chicken-hearted Governors who are constantly remitting the imprisonment in convictions for carrying concealed weapons. The cause of a very large proportion of homicides is the readiness of parties to shoot or cut, and this is altogether traceable to the possession of a deadly weapon. The fear that the other party in a quarrel may be also armed leads both sides to begin deadly work as quick as possible. It is important to get the drop on the other man, and in endeavoring to do this both sides begin the use of pistols or knives. In convictions for a violation of the of the statute against this most baneful crime there ought to be no remissions or pardons. A man who deliberately arms himself and goes about as a walking arsenal should, when found guilty, be put in jail and kept there during the entire period prescribed by law, and public sentiment should exact this of the executive officers.—Louisville Post.

Thos. WYATT. Nat Cotton, a farmer near Richmond, Ky., shot and severely wounded his brother-in-law, Wm. Hendron. Hendron's knee was frightfully shattered by a load of bird shot. Cotton's daughter was to have been married on Thursday, but the coming of an old lover, a nephew of Hendron's, broke off the wedding, and Cotton was angered by it, and demanded of Hendron his daughter, who was stopping with him. Upon Hendron's refusal to produce the girl, Cotton fired with the above result.

C. K. & W.

Last week Mr. J. S. Spaulding, of Elmira, N. Y., of the C. K. & W., was in the city, and the question of construction was freely discussed with the local board of directors: J. M. Big, Chairman, and A. Baum and N. H. Trimble. Foreign parties are ready to plank down the money and put a force to work at once if the statements of Mr. Spaulding, to their agent in this country, as to cheapness of construction, saving in mileage, and the sources of the country to be developed, shall prove to be correct. There is but one thing which they propose to ask from the counties through which the road will pass, and that is a guarantee of the right of way. To Montgomery county and the State of Kentucky as a through line with connections North and South, and a developer of our resources, this is the best line ever proposed, and we think our people, through whose lands it would pass, would be only too glad to give the right of way. This line, with the Kentucky Midland connecting with the K. U., at Clay City, and what we now have, would make Mt. Sterling a population of 50,000 in a few years, and would develop every other town along the line in proportion. But aside from this consideration Eastern Kentucky developments resulting in cheaper coal and lumber, would many times more than pay for our investments. The taxable property of the road alone would more than replace any damage.

Wigington vs. the Commonwealth, Montgomery; petition for re-hearing submitted; continued for oral argument; Clerk Whitney vs. the Kentucky Midland R. R. The following cases were submitted: Esterling vs. Chiles, Thompson & Co.; Williams vs. Cooper Morgan; Lane vs. Traders Deposit Bank, Bath. The following cases were passed for briefs: Parish vs. Ross, Montgomery; McClosky vs. Standard Oil, Montgomery; motion to dismiss appeal and submitted on motion. Mt. Sterling and Owingsville Turnpike Company vs. Hamilton, Bath; motion to transfer to Superior Court and submitted on motion. Mix vs. Turner, Morgan; continued. Brannin, Brand & Glover vs. Broadus, Montgomery, Reid Rogers appointed warning order attorney and submitted. Faulkner vs. Duff, Montgomery; submitted. Snyder vs. Mt. Sterling National Bank; passed for briefs. Jones vs. Bigstaff, Montgomery; death of Lizzie Farris suggested and continued for revivor.

RELIGIOUS.

Elder Forest, of Lexington, preached two very acceptable sermons at the Christian church Sunday morning and night.

Rev. G. B. Overton, of Louisville, preached two excellent sermons for Dr. R. Hiner's congregation on last Sunday morning and night.

Elder W. S. Keene, of Covington, who recently conducted the series of meetings at the Christian church, will fill Elder H. D. Clarke's pulpit next Sunday morning and night. This announcement will be sufficient to bring out a crowded house.

Elder H. D. Clarke is in the midst of a most interesting and successful meeting at the First Christian church, Covington, Ky. There were seventeen additions as a result of the first five services at last reports. The Covington papers speak in very complimentary terms of Brother Clarke.

The meeting being held at Warsaw seems to be growing in interest and its influence is extending. An exchange says: "The wonderful result is still in progress at the Methodist church in Warsaw, Ky. Dr. Vaughan and Rev. C. K. Nugent did the preaching up to Saturday, February 6. Since that time Rev. Barker, the pastor, has been doing the preaching. All the business houses, including three saloons, closed up last week from 11 to 12 each day. All denominations are working in harmony. Things were moving smoothly until Sunday night when Rev. Mr. Barker referred to Sabbath-breaking church members keeping stores open, &c. Then the bombshell burst. Men became enraged, cursed and said ugly things out on the streets. The fight is warming up. The best citizens of the town are on Mr. Barker's side, and excitement is up to fever heat. Such a revival tide has not been felt in Warsaw in twenty years. Old citizens say the like was never witnessed. It is now widening out, and the influence is spreading on both sides of the river.

Mr. J. A. Orer furnishes us the following notes of meetings held and in progress by evangelists of the Christian church: The meeting at Mt. Orab closed Feb. 4, with 112 added, conducted by Elder B. C. Black. At Mountain City, Tenn., a meeting just closed conducted by Jos. M. Cross, of Liberty, Tenn., with 41 added. Twenty-five added at Pomeroy, Washington, by Elder J. B. Dillon. Elders Martin and Ridenour closed their meeting at Caldwell, Kansas, Feb. 9, with 105 added. Fifty-four added in Wesley and Larimore's three weeks meeting at Rogersville, Greene county, Pa. Fifty-one additions in Thomas Cholmer's meeting at Denham Avenue, at Cleveland, Ohio. Eureka, Ill., Feb. 9, 1970 to date; will close Feb. 14; George F. Hall. Elders Martin and Easton's meeting closed at Richmond, Mo., with 109 added. Elders L. Swindle and J. H. James' meeting in Roseville, Ind., closed with 21 added. The meeting at Boynton, Ill., closed Feb. 1, with 26 added, conducted by Elder J. J. Jody. Twenty-five added in Elder J. H. Gorman's meeting at Bedford, Iowa. Twenty-three added in J. H. Stark's meeting, at Delta, Iowa. Twenty-one in Elder J. M. Hoffman's meeting at Pilot Grove, Mo., by Feb. 5, 1892. Coffeiville, Kan., Feb. 5, '92; am in good meeting; 38 additions; M. Ingals. Bro. A. C. Ashley closed a four weeks meeting at Parkville, Ind., with 50 additions. Elder A. Rich closed a meeting Feb. 1, at North English, Iowa, with 20 added. Meeting closed at Plattville, Wis., with 18 additions. A meeting at Paulding, O., closed with 42 added, held by Elder J. T. H. Stewart. Twenty added at East Liverpool, last week, conducted by Elder C. W. Huffer; meeting still in progress.

We take from the North Middletown Advance of last Tuesday the following account of the stabbing of T. P. Gaitskill, who is well known in this city, by R. C. Skillman: "T. P. Gaitskill was painfully stabbed early this morning by Constable R. C. Skillman, while resisting arrest. Gaitskill, who drives the stage between Mt. Sterling and this place, was in his cart preparing to leave, when Skillman approached and arrested him on a warrant charging him with cutting with intent to kill. Gaitskill struck at him several times and attempted to draw a knife, telling him that he would cut his (Skillman's) throat before he would be arrested. Skillman took hold of him and during the scuffle stabbed him in the left side. The knife entered between the ninth and tenth ribs, and the wound, though painful, is not necessarily dangerous. The knife used is a spring-back three-inch blade Rogers'.

The warrant for Gaitskill's arrest was sworn out by President of Council, charging him with cutting his son John on last Friday night during a fight."

Mr. Thos. Foster, of Spencer, died on Saturday morning, aged 75 years. He leaves a wife and eight children. All the children are grown. Burial Sunday at the family burying ground.

There is a wide-spread fear that the dreaded Typhus fever which has made its appearance in some of the Eastern cities, will find its way all over the country. This dread scourge is probably one of the most virulent and deadly known to medical science. It is generally admitted to be the plague that caused such fearful havoc throughout Europe during the middle ages, and is due to bad food and improper sanitation. It would seem that there is small prospect, that with the advanced knowledge of the present day, it cannot be kept in check. There are at present in New York City about 100 cases, most of them Russian Jews, just landed, who brought it with them. It is reported that many of the native population who have come in contact with it, have contracted the disease as it is highly contagious.

Mr. R. Gudgell says the friends of the Midland in Frankfort are jubilant over the prospects of the extension of the road. Gentlemen, who speak advisedly, told him that the prospects for the completion of the road were better than ever. He declined to say more but claimed to know whereof he spoke.—Owingsville Opinion.

Among the visitors to the annual celebration of the anniversary of the institution of the order of Knights of Pythias at Lexington last week, the following gentlemen from this city were present: Judge L. Apperson, A. A. Hazelrigg, Dr. D. L. Proctor, B. F. Robinson, J. H. Bruner, John William, Lewis Eastin and James Voris. The visitors report a pleasant time. The drill was exceedingly creditable and their entertainers did everything in their power to make the guests feel at home. The banquet spread in Jackson's Hall was a splendid feast and when Gen. Sam Hill wound up his address of welcome with the injunction "to fall to and eat," they "set."
